

Sedalia Evening Democrat

NEW SERIES.

SEDALIA, MISSOURI, MONDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1892.

PRICE, FIVE CENTS.

ABLE ORATORS.

MAKE ELOQUENT PLEAS FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Dalton and Moran Greeted by an Immense Audience—Unanswerable Arguments.

The cool weather could not quench democratic enthusiasm last Saturday night nor prevent the ladies and gentlemen of Sedalia standing up for the city, county, state and country.

Hundreds met at the market square and marched with band and torches to East Sedalia; there they were joined by other hundreds and the line of march again taken up with the court house the objective point. All along the route the procession was greeted with cries of "Hurrah for Cleveland, Stone and the democratic county ticket." It really seemed that the republicans of Sedalia had all become democrats or gone out of town.

It had been announced that Hon. Dick Dalton and Senator Mike Moran would deliver addresses at the court house and the large court room was filled long before the hour for speaking to begin. When the procession reached the court house even standing room was at a premium and hundreds were unable to get close enough to hear the speakers. Had the court room been twice as large it could hardly have furnished standing room for the crowd.

Hon. W. D. Steele called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock, and in a few well chosen words introduced Hon. Dick Dalton.

Col. Dalton was received with an ovation that showed that he was in the house of friends.

He began his address by replying to the complimentary remarks Mr. Steele had made in introducing him, and said that his first acquaintance with Billy Steele was when that gentleman had come down to Jefferson City with a committee representing the working men of Sedalia to aid in securing legislation in the interest of laboring men.

The speaker said he had been all over the state from the Iowa line to the borders of Arkansas, and everywhere found the democracy in line standing up for grand old Missouri and confident of success. It had been said that he had been brought here to whip his friends into line; it was false, he said, for his friends are in line ready to help take the administration of this country out of the hands of the party that is seeking to oppress the people.

He said Major McKinley had been brought to Missouri as the guest of the corporations and hauled through the state in a palace car because he (McKinley) is the friend of the corporations and an advocate of their interests.

McKinley represents paternalism, and paternalism means despotism; it is so in this country and has been true in all ages. Laboring men should not delude themselves with the idea that protection will bring them blessings and enjoyment, for it will surely bring woe, misery and national calamity.

The advocates of protection never thought of claiming that that policy was to benefit labor until the labor vote became a factor. Then they suddenly professed to be labor's friends.

You cannot protect the laborer by taxing him on what he has to buy.

Protection makes the manufacturer the guardian or trustee of the laborer; increased profits are put in the hands of the manufacturer and he is expected to distribute these profits to his employees.

How does he do this? Go read the lessons in the graves of murdered workmen at Homestead; go read it in the bloodstained homes and tearstained faces of the wives and children of the victims of Carnegie, Fricke and the protected plutocracy.

Carnegie was the pet and apostle of protection, but after the tariff had been increased and his profits enhanced he used his wealth in building fortifications and hiring armies of Pinkertons, and then when his employees objected to a reduction in their wages they were mercilessly shot down by the mercenaries that had been brought there to subjugate freemen.

He then spoke at length on state affairs. Said Warner posed as the friend of labor, but his life did not show any evidence of such friendship. In his speech Warner had made some comparisons, but the major wisely refrained from comparing the records of the two parties on labor questions or comparing Illinois and Missouri as regards laws in the interest of labor.

Every law upon the statute book in Missouri in the interest of labor had been put there by the democracy and not one by the republicans.

The law for the protection of miners was passed by democrats and its passage urged by Hon. W. J. Stone and a committee from Rich Hill.

The bureau of labor statistics. The law requiring inspection of factories.

The law giving laborers and servants liens for their wages.

The law protecting the poor working woman who buys her sewing machine on the installment plan.

The anti-Pinkerton law.

The anti-blacklisting law prepared by W. D. Steele, of Sedalia, and introduced by the speaker.

The anti-spotter bill. The bill protecting switchmen and brakemen.

All these laws put upon the statute books by the democratic party.

The democracy does not put the protection of laborers in the hands of trustees, but puts it on the statute books in the shape of laws.

"And yet," continued the speaker, "I am told that the working men are going to vote for Warner. Will you do it? [Cries of "No!" "No!"] I don't think you will."

Mr. Dalton said he hoped no friend of his would feel sore because he failed to secure the nomination for governor; for himself, he thought he had made a pretty fair race and was not ashamed of the result. Mr. Stone simply had more votes that he had and got the nomination. Stone is worthy of it and would have canvassed the state for his successful competitor had he been defeated.

As for the A. P. A. circular, he said he had investigated the matter and had found that Stone was as innocent of any connection with it as he was. The circular he said was issued for the purpose of using it against Dalton if Dalton was nominated or against Stone if Stone was successful; it was like the negro's con trap, set to catch them going or coming.

The A. P. A., he said, bore the ear marks of the republican party. The democracy had crushed the life out of the old know-nothing movement and would likewise crush this new doctrine that invaded a man's right to worship God according to the dictates of his own heart.

Col. Dalton was frequently interrupted by applause and it was plain to be seen that he was in touch with his audience throughout his address.

At the conclusion of Col. Dalton's address, Mr. Geo. F. Longan introduced Hon. Mike Moran, who in spite of the lateness of the hour held the undivided attention of his audience for over an hour while he delivered a most logical and eloquent address on the tariff question showing conclusively the evil effects and injustice of a protective tariff.

Masked His Hand.

James A. Montgomery, superintendent of the gas company met with a painful injury yesterday morning by which his right hand was badly crushed.

Mr. Montgomery was shutting the large door to the safe in the gas office and absent-mindedly had his hand caught by the door. The flesh was torn from his fingers and hand in several places and it will be many days before he will be as dexterous as usual.

STILL MISSING.

The Mystery Surrounding Will-Highleyman's Disappearance Still Unsolved.

The many friends in Sedalia of Will D. Highleyman, the architect, are much alarmed over his disappearance from his place of business in Chicago.

Mr. Highleyman recently married Miss Ora McCluney, daughter of Dr. T. P. McCluney, and both have been living very happily at their home in Evergreen Park, a suburb of Chicago.

On last Tuesday night, Mrs. Highleyman left Chicago and arrived in Sedalia the next morning and is still in city visiting her friends and parents. Her husband accompanied her to the depot and has not been heard of since. His father, R. D. Highleyman, employed in the M., K. & T. shops, is in Chicago searching for his son, but up to this time has not located him.

No one young man stands morally higher than Will Highleyman. Fears of foul play are expressed. It is to be hoped that he will soon be found sound and well.

LATER—At 12 o'clock a telegram was received from Mr. Highleyman saying that no trace of his son could be found.

SCARED OUT OF HIS WITS.

A Falling Cornice Comes Near Crushing a Man to Death at the Hoffman Building.

A costly and dangerous accident occurred at the new Hoffman building, corner of Ohio and Fifth, about 9:30 this morning. While the workmen were engaged in constructing the cornice on the north side and at the top of the fifth story, a section about eighteen feet long and weighing nearly three thousand pounds, fell from its position to the ground below.

In their fall, the immense stones struck a projecting cornice of the fourth story and crushed about ten feet of it so badly that part of the building will have to be taken down to repair the damage.

The upper cornice continued its course and was broken into a hundred pieces on the stones beneath, part of it falling into the basement.

A workman standing near by had a most miraculous escape. The immense rocks fell all around him and one struck the heel of his boot tearing it badly but in no wise injuring the man. He was unable to breath when last seen being, as the phrase goes, "too full for expression."

By Wits Outwitted.

At an engagement of two nights only, on Nov. 3d and 4th, 1892, will be presented Edward Owings Towne's new comedy, "By Wits Outwitted." A decided claim for this comedy is made for its entire originality and the opening of a new theme in the line of dramatic creations. The comedy is purely high class, and in all cities where it has been presented has met with great success, much to the credit of the theatre-going public for its appreciation of such kind of entertainment. When we pause to consider how at the present moment the stage is so deluged with whimsical farce and melodramatic productions of a clap-trap, unreal and sensational order, the story of "By Wits Outwitted" is most strikingly new and witty and the situations excruciatingly funny. In the cast are included a number of excellent players, the principal rolls being in the hands of artists, while special attention has been paid to the minor ones.

"A Glimpse of Paradise," a delightful curtain raiser by Frank S. Pixley, editor of the Chicago Mail, will precede the comedy "By Wits Outwitted."

ISSUE RESTATED.

The "Other Side" Hoisted with his own Petard.

To the Editor of the DEMOCRAT.

With your gracious consent, Mr. Editor, we will endeavor briefly and impartially to summarize some of the results of the discussion that has been going on in your paper within the past few days, if indeed it can be called a discussion when all the contention and all the argument have been proposed and maintained on one side, and not a pretence of real issue joined by the pretended champion of the "other side". The main propositions presented by Vindex were in defense of the good name and fair fame of our city at large, contending and reiterating with emphasis that there was nothing bearing the faintest resemblance to a reign of terror or a carnival of crime prevalent in this city at this time, nor had there been at any other time within the memory of men still living. He argued that there was no abnormal or alarming insecurity of life or property within our gates, that the fountain of justice was unsullied and its flow unimpeded, and that there was no provocation or justification for good citizens to buckle on revolvers, and rush together in mass meeting with intent to take the execution of law into their own hands. Now there has been no fic by slandering one of the best hotels in the city, (understood to be Sicher's) and the quiet and orderly company assembled there, in the following language: "Those who chanced to stroll into a certain hotel lobby just after the meeting adjourned and heard the obscene and vulgar criticisms indulged in by a certain class, &c."

Now when this statement was confronted by Vindex with a bold and confident denial, and the statement itself branded as false and libelous in general and in detail, and a challenge sent him to verify it, this impertinent champion of the "other side" takes refuge, as might have been expected, in prevarication and subterfuge, as follows:

"He (Vindex) declares he was armed around the hotel lobby by a certain minister, and that all the remarks regarding horses, races, kite tracks and mass meetings fell upon his ears gently, etc." As taught in the ancient adage, it often happens that when a man has told one falsehood he is obliged to tell two others in order to get out of the one, and so it turns out in this case. The statement is unqualifiedly false in at least two essential particulars: In the first place Vindex did not make the declaration here attributed to him, nor anything resembling it in substance or in detail, and in the second place this is not the accusa-successful or serious attempt to refute these propositions by anybody, not even by the arrogant popinjay who rushes into print as the voluntary and avowed champion of the "other side," (whatever that may be) and he is probably about as near nobody in a serious discussion as could well be imagined or described.

Even this befuddled and incoherent scribbler only ventures to assert in a general way without a word of specification or proof that "the gambling and other dives of this city are running in full blast, and that the officers of the law claim they cannot break them up, nor close the saloons on Sunday." Of course if the bare making of reckless general assertions without specifications or proof should be deemed conclusive, then the good name and fair fame of the most upright character in the land would be at the mercy of the vilest slanderer in the land; and so the forgoing statement without proof that the officers of the law, claim that they cannot execute the law, we have no doubt whatever is a fabrication out of whole cloth.

Not satisfied with attempting to besmirch the reputation of this goodly city at home and abroad, and to bring unmerited reproach upon the officers of the law, whose best efforts are generally unappreciated and thankless, he next proceeds to be a little more definite and specific tion the champion of the "other side" had previously made.

He had previously and explicitly charged the visitors at the hotel lobby with "obscenity and vulgarity" but when the charge was branded as a libel and repelled, and a challenge preferred to verify it, as meekly now as a little sucking turtle dove he has only to say there were "some remarks made regarding horses, races, kite-shaped tracks, etc." Ah, indeed, and what of it? Is there anything "vulgar or obscene" in remarks about horses, races, kite-shaped tracks? And if his ears were too delicate for such remarks why did he not retire to his own home? He was probably there voluntarily. He had probably not been sent for, and nobody was holding him.

The naked truth, however, is that the former statement was false in purpose and purport, and was deliberately intended to mislead the public. The perpetrator was fairly caught in the overt act by Vindex, and in his frantic efforts to extricate himself he madly plunges deeper in. A conscientious gentleman would have withdrawn the former injurious and untrue statement and apologized for it before making the latter statement at all.

erty in this city; that the officers of the law are perfectly competent, and the ordinary machinery of justice is perfectly adequate to the performance of all its functions; that no peaceable citizen need agitate himself for fear he will be slaughtered in his bed, or be called on to die with his boots on, and his murder go unavenged; and consequently there is no just demand or occasion for mass meetings, revolvers or inflammatory resolutions.

Another thing made apparent is that the self constituted champion of the "other side" has received about as thorough and effective a drubbing and scourging as it were possible to administer in the columns of a newspaper.

Vindex desired to consider only the main question as referred to in the foregoing, that namely, for which the mass meeting was ostensibly called, and to confine his remarks to that topic exclusively.

It was the avowed and self appointed hero of the "other side" who injected himself into the discussion with such unseemly haste, and who had the vulgar taste, the vulgar manners, and the bad judgment to lug in with him irrelevant issues and low bred, offensive personalities.

Now having been flayed alive, so to speak, he will, unless his folly is past all surgery, no doubt learn a lesson of prudence from his experience, and will be in no haste hereafter "to rush into print" when he has nothing to say, and no ability to say it.

By the way, we learn that those individuals who have knowledge of the fact that many persons in this city are criminally guilty of the very grave offense of carrying concealed weapons will likely be summoned and invited to lay their definite information before the next grand jury when it meets, or else admit that they have been talking at random. Distiller of more Sedalia regular readers of the EVENING DEMOCRAT than any other paper.

PETTIS county is democratic by five hundred majority. Just watch the figures.

STONE'S plurality will be ten thousand greater than Fifer's, if indeed Fifer has any plurality at all.

CLEVELAND'S election is assured and it looks like the democratic tidal wave of 1890 will be repeated.

THE democratic rally Saturday night showed that Sedalia democrats were not lacking in enthusiasm.

THE Malta Bend Quiver office was completely destroyed by fire Friday night. Editor Kapp is a hustler, however, and his paper will be out as usual this week.

It is wrong for the republican papers to misrepresent the political situation, thereby causing unthinking republicans to lose their money betting on men whose defeat is certain.

THERE is no question about the election of Billy Steele. Even the republicans admit that he is by far the ablest criminal lawyer in the race and that his well known competency and superior ability will give him a big majority.

WHEN such men as Gresham, McVeagh and Cooley quit the republican ranks it is getting time for all well-meaning republicans to stop and inquire if there is not reason to seriously doubt the correctness of their party's position.

GUARDING THEIR INTERESTS.
Jefferson City and Cole county have so long had special interests to look after in the general assembly that they have learned how best to guard them.

They know that the general assembly will be democratic, and for that reason a democratic representative, other things being equal, will have more influence on the floor of the house and senate, as well as in the committees, than a republican could have.

For that reason these shrewd republicans down at Jefferson City lay aside politics when it comes to representative and vote for the democratic nominee.

Cole is a close county, but these republicans know that a democrat can do more to prevent the removal of the capital than a republican can possibly accomplish, hence they voted for Gen. McIntyre.

And this year the republicans of Cole county made no nomination for representative, have left their ticket blank and will elect the democratic nominee, Hon. J. R. Edwards, without opposition.

Now there is a lesson in this for those republicans in Pettis county who hold the welfare and prosperity of Sedalia and the county as worth even more than party success.

The business man, the property owner, the laboring man, who wants to see Sedalia pushed forward in every way that state legislation can accomplish, should learn a lesson from their wise and wily old antagonists at Jefferson City, and select as their representatives at the state capital men who will be in touch and accord with the majority of the general assembly.

As senator, Mr. Yeater can do far more for the people of Sedalia than his republican opponent could possibly accomplish. Sedalia republicans expect Mr. Yeater to stand up for their material interests, and he will do it.

They, however, should stand up for him.

So, too, with regard to Mr. Prigmore. Because of his very party affiliations he can do more effective work for the material interests of republicans than any republican could do, and republicans who think more of the interests of the community than they do of party politics should give them their votes.

Republicans of Pettis county do you want to have the most efficient work done for Sedalia?

If so vote for Yeater for senator and Prigmore for representative.

They will be on guard, in the house of their friends, ready to stand up for Sedalia any time.

TRYING TO EVADE.
Sheriff Smith made use of the word reputable, let it be remembered. And he will no doubt have something to say regarding the DEMOCRAT's publication of yesterday as soon as he returns to the city.—Gazette.

The republican organ having gotten the republican candidate for collector into hot water is now trying to evade or dodge.

That paper distinctly stated that Sheriff Smith DENIED having used the expression "I don't want any d—n democrat's vote," and that he AUTHORIZED that paper to say that he would donate $500 to any charity the DEMOCRAT would name if the proof could be given that he had used the language attributed to him.

THE DEMOCRAT gave the SWORN testimony of three reputable men to prove that he had said it. The evidence is sufficient to convict before an impartial jury.

Now, unless he can convict these gentlemen of perjury, the only thing for Sheriff Smith to do is to withdraw his public denial; enter a confession; pay the $500 to the charity hospital and, in the four years of private life that awaits him, reflect how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a reckless newspaper friend.

SHERIFF SMITH was out of the city yesterday and last night, which fact was probably well known to the DEMOCRAT when it went into the affidavit publishing business.—Gazette.

Sheriff Smith was in the DEMOCRAT office in company with a well known business man of this city not more than twenty minutes before the DEMOCRAT containing the affidavits was issued on Saturday. It would have been a great deal better for the gentleman if he had been out of town the day he authorized the Gazette to enter a denial for him. His absence then would have at least saved him the five hundred dollars he has promised to "any charity the DEMOCRAT may name."

REBUKE IT AGAIN.

The Gazette inaugurated an indecent and reprehensible campaign of personalities in the city contest last spring and carried it to such length that scores of conservative republicans voted against good men on their city ticket in order to rebuke the villainous course of their party organ.

That paper has kept up the same tactics in the county campaign and again made it necessary for fair-minded men to rebuke it.

Its attack upon Joe Hughes was so inexcusable, unfair and indefensible that republicans voluntarily went to him and promised him their support as a vindication of his integrity.

But when confronted with the facts, and when shown that some of the best known republicans in Pettis county, some of them candidates on the republican ticket, stood just as Mr. Hughes did, the paper had neither the courage to defend its course nor the manliness to withdraw the slander and apologize for having published it.

Later it made a most uncalled for attack upon Mr. Hopkins, and when confronted with the facts refused to publish them in its columns.

Later still it criticised Collector Doherty for doing his duty in the matter of collecting back taxes, and coupled with that criticism a like one upon Mr. Chas. E. Yeater, whose only offense was that he was attorney for the collector. And this too in face of the fact that the paper knows, and its own files will show, that delinquent tax-payers had been publicly warned again and again that unless they paid such taxes suit would be brought.

It made a bitter assault upon Billy Steele, until it saw that the agitation of the subject was hurting its favorite candidate on the republican ticket, and then, instead of withdrawing its unjust criticisms, it simply closed its mouth and stood dumb before the public.

No story upon a democrat is too improbable or too vile for the Gazette to admit to its columns, even though it knows that the worst of its stories could be paralleled and substantiated against its own candidates.

With pharisaical insincerity it howls about candidates visiting "disreputable resorts," when it knows that it is supporting men who themselves, visit such places. This kind of journalism is disreputable and injurious to the public welfare.

Commenced by one party journal it forces those of the opposite party to retaliate in kind, if not to the same disgusting degree, and is as annoying to decent journals as it is to a decent public.

There is only one way to stop it in Pettis county, and that is to rebuke the party whose organ is responsible for it—or more properly to rebuke the organ by striking at its only vulnerable point, its favorite candidates.

Many fair minded republicans did this in Sedalia last spring, but the one lesson seems to have been insufficient. Defeat every man on the republican county ticket and there will be no "Dilline Dreams" or campaign of personalities next year.

Stand up for Sedalia and Pettis county.

JUDGING from the "campaign song" published in the Gazette the republican candidates have become imbued with that paper's peculiar style of campaigning to such an extent that some at least have forgotten that they live in glass houses themselves.

THE wholesale abuse and misrepresentation that has been heaped upon Mr. James S. Hopkins will cause many fair-minded republicans to vote for him. This thing of attempting to ruin a man's character for political purposes must be rebuked by men who love justice and fair play, and where a man is persecuted and hounded as Mr. Hopkins has been by his enemies the great mass of the people are pretty apt to resent it with their ballots. Vote for Jim Hopkins.

MIKE DOHERTY has held the office of collector one term; he has made an honest, competent, polite and efficient officer and it is but fair and right that he should have an endorsement at the ballot box. It is customary to re-elect worthy officials to a second term. His election would have been certain even if the Gazette had not succeeded in placing his opponent in such an unfavorable light. As it is now, Mike will have a walk-over.

THE newspapers all over the district are complimenting Mr. Heard upon the able, logical and eloquent arguments he is making in defense of democracy. His most unanswerable arguments, however, are the honest, zealous service he has rendered his constituents and the honorable record he has made in congress. These are arguments that outlive the excitement of the hour. They are the glories that are worth striving for.

HEARD'S APPOINTMENTS.

Where He Will Speak During the Present Week.

Hon. John T. Heard will address the voters of the district at the following places this week:
Centralia, Monday, Oct. 31st.
Hallsville, Tuesday, Nov. 1st.
Harrisburg, Wednesday, Nov. 2d.
Longwood, Thursday, Nov. 3d.
Sedalia, Friday, Nov. 4th.
Lamonte, Saturday, Nov. 5th.

Twisted His Tail.

Jack Coats has occasion to vividly remember the republican rally at Nevada last week. He was standing in the public square when the accidental discharge of a sky rocket from a passing flambeau club took a zig-zag and erratic course through a crowd of people, ranked about 20 deep, and made a plunge to go up Jack's sleeve. He tried to hold the thing by its tail and in so doing had the back of his left hand severely burned. Jack says that a "hoodoo" is following him and that he never fails to get into trouble when there is any around.

Stole an Overcoat.

Saturday about noon the private room of Mrs. Ingram, proprietress of the Palace hotel, was broken open and a brown overcoat valued at $25 stolen. In the pockets was a pair of kid gloves trimmed in fur. The door was forced by breaking off the catch on the door facing.

A guest who arrived at the hotel last Monday has disappeared and he will doubtless be called upon to explain his connection with the affair.

An Elastic Imagination.

One year ago last Monday the M., K. and T. general offices were removed from Sedalia to this city. In that year a great change has come over that scene. A year ago the employees were very much grieved over the removal, but now they find they have cast their lines in pleasant places, and while there are a few disgruntled individuals, the large majority of the boys are perfectly contented with the change.—Parsons Sun.

Speaking in Boone.

Hon. John J. Heard left this morning for Boone county where he will deliver several addresses in defense of democratic principles. He will return about the middle of the week and will make several speeches in this county, one in this city, one at Longwood and one at Lamonte. Due notice will be given as to dates.

McKinley's Speech.

About 2000 people heard Governor McKinley speak at the Union Depot and when he had finished they dispersed and it seemed that the entire crowd was of the same opinion for they were soon found gathered at the opera house bar talking of the celebrated Faust beer and enjoying the well known hospitality of the genial proprietor, Chas. H. Raiffeisen.

The Assembly Dance.

The assembly club gave their first hop of the season at the armory last night, and danced to the numbers of a most carefully arranged and inviting programme. There was a good attendance and the ladies never looked handsomer.

Fine, Juicy Oysters.

Fresh oysters, the first of the season, served in all styles at Sacher's cafe. Also for sale by the can.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Kentucky Colonel."

In an extended criticism the Louisville Courier Journal says: "When Mr. Opie Read, who had gained a reputation of a professional writer of jokes and funny stories, diverged into serious work and made a bid for literary recognition by writing 'A Kentucky Colonel,' he had reason to feel a considerable degree of satisfaction. There was made evident a serious and sustained purpose to produce a story on which, while observing the cardinal requirements of good fiction, there should be a faithful reflection of local color in a field little tilled and company supposed to be rich in material. His use of the Kentucky feud was happy. The story is a very absorbing one, the incidents are quite naturally and simply arranged, and there is sufficient plot. The most conspicuous features, however, and the one which substantiates its claim to the chief commendation, is the character drawing. They are real, living, representative types, the product of their surroundings, possessing distinct qualities which make for individuality." Wood's opera house, tonight.

A Cholera Scare.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things ever made. For sale by Aug. Fleischmann, Druggist.
